Nephew of Mary Richardson Receives Air Medal in Florida

THE PINE NEEDLE, newspaper published for Pinecastle Air Force Base in Florida, carries a story and picture about a nephew of Miss Mary Richardson, here at the Register office.

The article reveals that First Lt. Ramon K. Richardson, son of Mary's late brother, Mark, has received the Air Medal, and the picture shows him wearing the medal after presentation by Col. Michael N. W. McCoy, who is shaking Lt. Richardson's hand.

The story says in part:

"The Air Medal, with Citation, one of our nation's highest peacetime flying awards, was presented to First Lt. Ramon K. Richardson, 446th Bomb Squadron . . . in special ceremonies in the commander's office last week."

They were earned in early 1955 while he was assigned to an RB-26 group in Korea. Since that time, he has attended a service school at Mather AFB in California and arrived in Florida in March.

He lives with his mother in Orlando.

POLLY PARROT has been attracting a lot of attention down the Arensman's shoe store foyer.

You step on a mat to start Polly to talking and she really gives you a shoe spiel when she starts.

It's all quite startling at first, stepping on the rubber mat without knowing what is to come and then getting the sales talk from a fine-feathered friend.

THIS DIDN'T HAPPEN HERE: A woman, with companion, was maneuvering her car into a tight parking place. After a valiant struggle, the driver shut off the motor and said to her companion: "This is close enough. We can walk to the curb from here."

AND NEITHER DID THIS: A boy and his mother stood looking at a dentist's showcase.

"If I have false teeth when I grow up, I'd take that pair," said the boy, pointing.

"Hush, James," said his mother. "Haven't I told you it's bad manners to pick your teeth in public!"

Elks to Present Seventh Annual Minstrel Oct. 3-4

Harrisburg Elks lodge No. 1058 will present its seventh annual Elks Minstrel at the Grand theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 3 and 4, it was announced today by Vern Joyner Jr., exalted ruler of the lodge. The minstrel is for the benefit of the Elks' Crippled Children fund.

As in the past six years this show will be under the supervision of the John B. Rogers Producing Co., of Fostoria, Ohio, the world's largest producers of amateur theatricals. Coming here as director will be Harvey Work, a newcomer as far as Harrisburg is concerned but he has been in the show business many years.

"Rather than ask the public for donations to help us carry on our Crippled Children's activity," Mr. Joyner explained, "our club decided that if we provide some worthwhile entertainment for the public, one in which it really gets its money's worth, we can expect more support and assistance."

This year's show "Round the Town" is divided into two parts. The first part will be a musical revue fitting into this year's political picture in that all its activity centers around our nation's capital, Washington, D. C., while the second part will be devoted to an old time minstrel with its black faced men and singing chorus. This show is composed of all local talent and anyone interested in participating in any way should contact Gene Schmierle.

Gov. Muskie is Re-Elected by Large Margin

Party Also Wrests Two Congress Seats From Incumbents

WASHINGTON (UP) — A smashing Democratic victory in normally Republican Maine today jolted the GOP and boosted Democratic hopes for a national sweep in November.

Gov. Edmund S. Muskie, first Democratic governor in 20 years, rolled up an overwhelming margin over his GOP opponent to win reelection easily. It was the first reelection of a Democratic governor in Maine in 22 years.

The Democrats also captured two congressional seats from incumbent Republicans, although the GOP's Rep. Robert Hale of Portland was beaten by only a handful of votes in complete but unofficial returns in the first district.

The only Republican victory was Rep. Clifford G. McIntyre's easy win over Kenneth B. Colbath in the state's third district.

Under its state constitution, Maine elects its governor and members of Congress on the second Monday in September. By filling congressional seats two months ahead of the other 47 states, it is sometimes a weathervane to show how the political winds are blowing.

While it is risky to read national meaning into results from a single state, the Maine vote will buoy Democratic hopes of retaining control of Congress and upsetting President Eisenhower next Nov. 6.

A jubilant Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, commented that, next to Muskie, he was the happiest man in the country.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said the Maine results "should be a warning to Republicans in the rest of the country" that "we face a tough fight and the only way we can win is to work harder than ever before."

Hall discounted Democratic claims of a national trend, however. He said the old custom of regarding the Maine election "as a sort of barometer" was proved unreliable years ago. He expressed confidence that "President Eisenhower will carry the state by a

Charge Johnston City Man with Manslaughter

MARION, Ill. (UP) — A manslaughter charge was filed today against Robert McDonald, 22, Johnston City, a bridegroom of two months who shot to death his best man and former employer Sunday.

McDonald was released on $10,000 bond.

The victim of the slaying was Robert Springs, 32, a Johnston City plumbing contractor. A coroner's jury Monday night recommended that McDonald be held for grand jury action.

Key witness at the inquest was Mrs. Mable McDonald, mother of Robert McDonald, who was the only witness to the slaying Sunday afternoon at her son's home. McDonald refused to testify on the advice of his attorneys.

The mother testified that Springs had accused her son of making derogatory remarks about him. She said that for about an hour Springs had demanded that her son accompany him to correct the alleged remarks or to "come outside and fight it out." She said her son said he had not made the alleged remarks.

Mrs. McDonald said that her son's wife, Yuba, became hysterical because of the argument and was in the bedroom crying at the time of the slaying. The mother testified that Springs had refused repeated requests to leave the house.

Mrs. McDonald said her son fired the three shots into Springs' body after Springs had either hit or swung at her son. Mrs. McDonald said she had gone to the front door and opened it for Springs to leave.

Paul Joseph Hoffart, 7, is City's First Polio Patient

Paul Joseph Hoffart, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hoffart, 325 East Poplar street, is Harrisburg's first polio patient of the year.

Paul is a patient in Deaconess hospital, Evansville, but the case isn't expected to be severe.

A. M. Hetherington, chairman, Saline County Chapter for Infantile Paralysis, stated today he had been informed by physicians from the hospital that the illness had been diagnosed as non-paralytic polio.

This is the second polio case in Saline county to be reported this year. Earlier this month David Lee Keith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Keith, RFD 2, Carrier Mills, was found to be suffering from polio.

Mr. Hetherington also announced there were two other Saline county children in hospitals suspected of being ill with polio, but the result of the examinations had not been reported to him yet.

Morganfield Rally Asks Chandler Impeachment

Two Injured in Auto Crash Near Norris City

Two persons are in Carmi Township hospital as the result of an auto accident at 4:30 p. m. Monday a mile north of Norris City on Ill. 1.

Injured are Mrs. Ruth Catlin, 46, of Norris City, and her daughter, Stella Valeta, 14. Mrs. Catlin suffered numerous cuts, and the daughter a broken arm, several broken ribs, cuts, and possibly other injuries.

The accident occurred when James Bolerjack, 19, of Norris City, was coming over the Ditney Ridge hill traveling north. Upon topping the hill, he found himself behind a tractor and hit his brakes, lost control of his car, and wound up skidding backward in the left lane. The rear end of his car crashed into the front of the Catlin car.

Bolerjack, on leave from the Air Force, was uninjured. He was driving a car belonging to Bobby Johnson of Norris City. Damage to the car was estimated at $1,000. The Catlin car was demolished.

State Patrolman Dale Masser investigated. No charges were filed.

Britain, France Warn of Appropriate Measures

Menzies to Fly to U. S. for Talks with Eisenhower, Dulles

LONDON (UP)—Britain and France renewed their determination today to take "all appropriate measures" against any interference with freedom of shipping in the Suez Canal. Observers interpreted this to mean they would use force if necessary.

The old Suez Canal Co. moved for a showdown with Egypt and "authorized" all of its non-Egyptian employees in the canal to "stop working" this weekend. A mass walkout would cripple operations in the canal. Most of the European employees are British and French.

Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced he planned to fly to Washington Thursday for talks with President Eisenhower and U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles on the Suez crisis. Menzies headed the five-nation committee to the unsuccessful talks in Cairo. He already has given British and French leaders a fill-in.

But the wording of a joint communique issued after urgent consultations in London between French and British leaders gave a clue that the first move may come in the United Nations.

The communique's final words were a direct quotation from the preamble of the U. N. charter—

"justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law."

It was violation of this justice and respect that Britain and France have committed themselves to resist.

Resist Any Interference

Informed sources said British Prime Minister Anthony Eden and French Premier Guy Mollet considered taking the dispute to the United Nations. These sources said it was proposed to give the matter a "fast run" through the U. N. Security Council before taking any drastic steps.

Officials refused to say whether this move actually had been decided upon.

A formal communique said Eden and Mollet pledged to "resist by all appropriate means" any interference with the free flow of shipping through the Suez Canal.

It was a blunt warning to Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser that France and Britain will act swiftly against mistreatment of their nationals in Egypt as well as against any attempt to upset the normal operations of the canal.

In Cairo today, Nasser said he was "preparing for the worst eventualities."

The Arab League called on its member nations to stand by for an urgent meeting to support Egypt if Britain and France move against her.

State Moves for Repayment of 'Excessive Charges' by Dunbar

Trucking Firm Also Held Liable To School Districts

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—The state attorney general moved today to obtain repayment of $114,138 in "excessive charges" from Dunbar & Co. trucking firm under its controversial food hauling contract.

The Dunbar firm, headed by Sangamon County Probate Clerk James W. Dunbar, Monday was notified the state would institute legal action to obtain the refund if it was not paid by Sept. 20.

The attorney general also notified Dunbar he is obligated to return to local school districts and the Chicago Board of Education "excessive charges" levied against them for hauling federal surplus foods for school lunch programs.

Special Asst. Atty. Gen. Mark O. Roberts announced the action late Monday.

Dunbar said "certainly we are going to fight" the state action. In the demand for repayment of the excessive charges, Atty. Gen. Latham Castle said state and local school districts paid a total of $1,382,670 for handling and hauling of the federal surplus food under the Dunbar contract.

He said that based on current investigations and a report from a congressional subcommittee on government operations, "It appears that a fair and reasonable charge for the service rendered . . . would not exceed the total sum of $780,922."

Dunbar was awarded the contract for hauling federal surplus foods to schools and state institutions by Supt. of Public Instruction Vernon L. Nickell in June, 1952. It was let without bids.

Roberts told newsmen that under the contract, unit prices for hauling the food were supposed to be determined on the basis of a survey made by Dunbar of prevailing warehouse and trucking rates.

"As far as we can determine," Roberts said, "no such survey was ever made," and the rates paid under the contract were based on a "material mistake of fact."

If the demand for the repayment is not met, Roberts said, civil proceedings will be started in Sangamon County Circuit Court in an effort to collect the "excessive charges."

Roberts said it will be up to the local state's attorneys, as legal officers of their school boards, to institute proceedings to obtain repayment of excessive charges to local districts.

No Comment by Governor on Kentucky Action

Eight Students Enter Sturgis High School Unescorted

STURGIS, Ky. (UP)—Eight Negro students entered Sturgis High School today unescorted by police or National Guardsmen for the first time, but residents of this west Kentucky mining area have not given up their fight against racial integration of their schools.

In place of the mob action which kept the Negro pupils out of the school last week and brought state police and National Guard troops into Sturgis, segregationists moved today to impeach Gov. A. B. Chandler for calling in the troops.

A resolution calling for Chandler's impeachment was voted by acclamation by a crowd of 4,000 people that overflowed the Union County courthouse at Morganfield Monday night. White Citizens Council Chairman Wright W. Walker Jr. proposed the impeachment resolution.

It appeared the demand would be stymied, however.

Under Kentucky law, impeachment is a function of the General Assembly. That body won't meet again until January, 1958, unless Chandler himself calls it into special session.

Chandler declined any comment on Monday night's action by the Morganfield crowd, which also adopted a resolution enjoining him against further use of troops to replace normal civil authority in this area.

The six Negro boys and two Negro girls who showed up for school this morning came about an hour early in private cars, and entered the front door of the building.

There were about 50 persons standing around the school, mostly teenagers plus a few workmen. There were a few catcalls which appeared to be mostly in a humorous vein.

Twelve state police cruisers were parked across the street and a company of National Guardsmen still occupied the schoolyard, but neither made any move to escort the children into the school.

As the Negro children entered, 15 or 16 white pupils seated on the front steps paid no attention to their Negro classmates.

Trouble over integration at Clay Elementary School apparently ended this morning when a Negro mother decided to send her two children to Rosenwald School, a Negro school at Providence, Ky.

The commander of the National Guard today increased the number of troops in the Sturgis-Clay race trouble area to more than 1,000 men.

The 201st Engineer Battalion, consisting of more than 200 men from Owensboro and Paducah, Ky., were brought into Camp Breckinridge, 15 miles north of Sturgis.

In a different kind of protest at Raleigh, N. C., Gov. Luther Hodges, who sponsored a strong constitutional safe-guard of school segregation in North Carolina, was hanged in effigy.

National Guardsmen in battle dress ended rioting against integration by escorting Negro pupils to former all-white schools at Clinton, Tenn.

But in Texas, where state rangers and local officers refused to escort the Negroes past segregationist picket lines the Negroes had achieved today only momentary entries to school houses.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

JACK ANDERSON Says: Specifications Altered To Pave Way For Hycon Bid; Fat $2,000,000 Contract At Stake; GOP Feuds Spark Today's Primaries.

WASHINGTON. — The skids have been greased for a company that apparently should have been disqualified to bid for a plush $2,000,000 government contract.

The firm happens to be headed by ex-Assistant Air Force Secretary Trevor Gardner, who rebelled against the Eisenhower administration and switched to the Democratic party in a row over guided missile delays. The administration seemingly shouldn't owe him any favors.

Yet his firm, Hycon Manufacturing company, managed to get its fish-hooks into a juicy foreign aid contract in apparent violation of the government's own bidding specifications.

The contract calls for designing a modern telecommunications system in Thailand, Vietnam, and Laos. To prevent an unscrupulous manufacturer from working his own equipment into the plans, the specifications barred manufacturers of communications equipment from bidding.

RULES CHANGED

By all definitions, Gardner's firm is a manufacturer of communications equipment specializing in electronics. Hycon has done $1,245,634 worth of electronics business with the Air Force, has another $3,000,000 backlog in military orders.

Yet in defiance of the specifications, Hycon submitted a joint bid with the Page Communications Engineers. Rather than kick the bid out, the International Cooperation Administration simply changed the specifications so the Hycon-Page combine could stay in the running.

The new wording bans only manufacturers of "major items of communications equipment which could be employed in this system." ICA claims Hycon is not a manufacturer of "major items" likely to be used in the proposed telecommunications network.

ICA also denies that the specifications were changed for Hycon's special benefit. Yet the Hycon-Page bid is one of three singled out for final negotiations.

The whole deal might bear congressional scrutiny.

REPUBLICAN FEUD

Political Pipeline — Utah's runoff primary today will settle a feud between the state's two senior Republicans — stern, judicious Sen. Arthur Watkins, and fiery, blunt-spoken Gov. J. Bracken Lee. . . . The feud began when Lee stuck up for Sen. Joe McCarthy (R. Wis.), while Watkins was leading the Senate fight to censure him. . . . Watkins is now backing George Clyde against Lee for the governorship.

The Watkins-Lee feud is so intense that the senator refused to join the standing ovation when Lee was introduced at the state GOP convention. . . . Watkins' colleague, Sen. Wallace Bennett, started to rise and applaud. But Watkins suddenly engaged him in furious conversation. Bennett took the hint and dropped back in his chair.

Lee originally intended to try taking Bennett's seat away from him in the primary. The governor backed off, however, after powerful Mormon leaders sent word they would support Bennett. . . . Lee is handicapped in the Republican primary by his past sharp attacks on the Eisenhower administration. Lee had also spoken out against third terms, is now running for a third term himself.

MORE FIREWORKS

Another political feud has exploded in New Hampshire between two former friends — Sen. Styles Bridges and his protégé, Wes Powell. . . . Young Powell is challenging Gov. Lane Dwinell in today's GOP gubernatorial primary.

To stir up headlines for himself, Powell seized upon a paragraph in New Hampshire's corrupt practices act requiring candidates to report anything "of value" received in a campaign.

. . . Powell asked the state attorney general to rule whether this would include the government salary paid to a secretary who campaigned for his boss. He also asked about the free mail sent out by congressmen for campaign purposes.

Senator Bridges was appalled by this petition. He lit out for Powell's office and urgently pointed out the possible consequences of such a ruling. . . . It would put the entire New Hampshire congressional delegation on a delicate spot, Bridges pleaded. They would have to keep their staffs out of political campaigns and stop mailing political speeches, or risk public censure by reporting how much staff work and mail was devoted to politics.

But Powell, who once worked in Bridges' office, bit the hand that had boosted him. Powell flatly rejected every appeal Bridges could make. . . . Thus ended a long political friendship.

WASHINGTON WIT
Overheard on the Washington Beat — A Republican describing the expected wide-open 1960 presidential race: "You won't be able to see the forest for the presidential timber." . . . A weary correspondent, after reading both the Republican and Democratic platform: "It should be a promising campaign."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY
Is anything too hard for the Lord? Genesis 18:14.

If he can order His universe stretching two billion light years in every direction surely nothing is too great for His task: nor too small either. Our bodies are made of billions of cells, each one more amazing than an atomic bomb. We should cultivate such a Friend Who wants our love.

Tax Collections for Illinois During May Total $23,110,124

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — May sales tax collections totaled $23,110,124, the Revenue Department reported today.

The May figures, for collections made on April sales, included $1,088,775 collected under the "use" tax on goods bought out-of-state for use in Illinois.

The report did not include funds collected under city sales taxes. The department said the May total was collected from 143,198 "taxpayers" or business firms which collected taxes on their sales.

Cadillac

To the Man Who is Hesitating...

There are many motorists here in this community who have given serious consideration to the purchase of a new Cadillac car this year—and yet, for one reason or another, have not made the move.

If you are among them, we hope that you will pause to read the little message that follows. For we are sure you will find it interesting.

Ordinarily, when a man hesitates to make the move to Cadillac, it is because he is not familiar with the practical aspects of Cadillac ownership.

Insofar as original cost is concerned, a Cadillac is eminently practical. Several models, in fact, are actually priced competitively with the so-called "medium-priced" makes.

Operating and maintenance costs are also remarkably low. We have heard it said by new owners that Cadillac is the most economical automobile they have ever owned.

And as for resale value—well, Cadillac traditionally retains a greater share of its worth through the years than any other motor car in the land.

In short, the great Cadillac car represents one of the wisest and soundest automotive investments on the highway today.

The moral of our message is this: It is still not too late to set things right in a 1956 Cadillac of your own!

We have a selection of new Cadillacs on hand—and we can promise you both prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance.

Why not come in today?

Illinois Federation President to Address Annual Meeting of Home Bureau Thursday

The annual meeting of the Saline County Home Bureau will be held Thursday, Sept. 13, at 1 p. m. in the basement of the First Christian church in Harrisburg with Mrs. E. D. McGuire, Illinois Home Bureau Federation president, as guest speaker.

Mrs. McGuire graduated from the Mt. Vernon Township high school and taught for five years in Mt. Vernon elementary schools, doing college work in summer terms; then for four years taught English and history in Zenia and Louisville high schools.

Soon after graduation from what was then Southern Illinois Normal University at Carbondale she married E. D. McGuire who operates a fruit and stock farm, most of which has been in McGuire ownership since the original deed from the U. S. Government.

The McGuires have three sons: William, now working towards his Master's degree in Applied Music at SIU in Carbondale; Dan, soon to return to his college work as an agriculture major, after his present Navy term ends, and Val, also almost to the end of his Navy term, and planning to return to college.

Mrs. McGuire's Home Bureau interests began in 1928 when she served as a member of the organization committee which established Home Bureau in Jackson county with four units connected with Williamson-Johnson Home Bureau. Later she was one of the committee which set up Jackson-Perry Home Bureau and finally saw Jackson County Home Bureau established.

She has served in various capacities in her county, including that of county chairman, and also served as district director for the Federation. She was a member of the IAA State School committee and during the past year was a member of the Extension Advisory committee.

For several years she has been an election clerk in Makanda precinct.

Mr. and Mrs. McGuire belonged to and are Sunday school teachers in the Oak Grove Methodist church in Makanda, and they have both taken active parts in establishing the Bald Knob Cross Foundation, her husband having been treasurer for this for many years.

The annual business meeting will be held and new officers installed at the meeting.

She told of the division of the Federation into 23 districts, and three regions, and of the services which the club rendered in such departments as health, welfare, veterans, youth and Indians. Mrs. Collins also stated that the organization was quite cultural and sometime referred to as the "Homemakers' College." Eisenhower Says U. S. Must Widen Every Possible Chink in Iron Curtain

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower said today the United States must "widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain" to help build an "enduring peace" in the world.

Mr. Eisenhower made the statement in an informal talk before a group of prominent Americans in the education, publishing, religious, agricultural and other fields. They met here to discuss the President's program to promote more "people-to-people" contacts throughout the world.

The President called the meeting to bring private initiative into the government's effort to make clear—particularly behind the Iron Curtain—that United States global aim is "friendliness and peace among all nations."

The President said he favors increasing the exchange of professors, students, technical aids, doctors, laborers and others with other nations.

"In short, what we must do is widen every possible chink in the Iron Curtain," he said.

In this way, the President suggested, Russians and others will be brought closer to the United States. He said they can be shown "how we do it and then sit down and say—how do we improve the lot of both of us?" This, he said, "is the truest path to peace."

Bank Gives Up Search for Million Dollar Banknote

NEW YORK (UP) — The Chase Manhattan Bank's missing million dollar banknote will have to stay missing, the bank reluctantly decided Monday.

Officials of the bank called off a six-month search for the Treasury note which had been turned over to Chase Manhattan for safekeeping by a smaller bank.

When the smaller bank asked for its money back on March 6, Chase employees went to the drawer where it had been filed away on Feb. 8. It was gone.

A feverish search followed. More than 150 bank employees turned Chase Manhattan upside down.

They rifled through stacks of paper, peered into filing cabinets, poked into wastebaskets. Still no million dollar Treasury note.

The quest cost Chase Manhattan thousands of dollars and the bank was actually the only party to lose money as the Treasury note is non-negotiable. The Treasury Department eventually will reimburse the smaller bank.

Demo Platform Rips Stratton, Hollingsworth

CHICAGO (UP) — Gov. William G. Stratton was denounced in the State Democratic convention platform Monday as being "partly to blame" for the Hodge scandal.

The plank ripped into Stratton and State Finance Director Morton Hollingsworth for failing to require former State Auditor Orville E. Hodge to make financial reports.

This failure, the platform indicated, "led Hodge to believe he could get away with anything."

Hodge now is serving a prison sentence for masterminding a giant embezzlement of state funds.

The platform urged reforms in state statutes to prevent such pilfering of money in the future, and recommended that all vouchers of the state auditor's office be approved by the finance department before they are paid.

Regular audits of the auditor's records by an agency responsible only to the state legislature were called for.

A reform of the judiciary was also suggested, but the Democrats said they doubted whether this could be brought about by non-elective selection of judges.

"We stand committed to defend the rights of the people to elect their judges," the judicial plank said.

A proposed constitutional amendment "designed to meet the present day needs for prompt and efficient administration of justice" also was incorporated in the party platform.

Epping Taken To Menard

SPRINGFIELD (U)—Edward A. Epping was taken to Menard State Prison today to join his old "boss," Orville E. Hodge, behind bars.

Epping, the third principal in the Hodge scandal to be sentenced, was taken from the Sangamon County jail and driven to Menard by Sheriff Arthur A. Gross and Deputy Paul Terril.

Meanwhile, State's Atty. George P. Courtrick said he would ask the Menard warden for a "detainer" on Epping when he is released from prison so Epping can be tried on charges still pending against him.

Epping pleaded guilty to state charges of conspiracy to defraud the state, but he pleaded innocent to 46 indictments charging forgery, embezzlement and confidence game tactics in the Hodge scandal. Courtrick said his office still plans to prosecute these charges.

Nixon to Launch Gruelling 32-State Election Swing

WASHINGTON (U)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon will launch a gruelling plane swing through 32 states next week to try and jolt Republicans out of any complacency and apathy.

President Eisenhower was quoted Monday as saying his only fear in the coming election was "the Democrats would get their vote out and we would not." Nixon and GOP Chairman Leonard Hall expressed the same concern.

Nixon said the aim of his initial 16-day, 5,000-mile plane trip will be to pin-point the GOP "weak spots and strong spots."

He also told a news conference that Mr. Eisenhower and he agree that the GOP campaign should be "based on the administration's constructive achievements."

Nixon will conclude his campaign swing Oct. 3, and make a report to the voters the following day in a nationally televised speech.

Two Girls Return Lost Billfold Containing $11,000

EAST CHICAGO, Ind. (U)—A lost billfold—containing $11,000—has been returned to its owner by two 13-year-old girls who found it near a bus stop.

Mike Cheaja, 69, Hammond, said he lost the money Monday while on his way to deposit it in a bank. He said he recalled seeing two girls at a bus stop where he had waited to transfer. Cheaja, who knew the East Chicago Roosevelt high school was in the area, rushed to the school on the chance that the girls were enrolled there.

The wallet was in the office of the principal to whom Charlene Smith and Jackie Gillis, both of East Chicago, had turned it over before going to class.

Royal Newlyweds Arrive for Six-Weeks' Visit

NEW YORK (U)—A radiant and relaxed Princess Grace of Monaco arrived today with her bridegroom, Prince Rainier III for a six-week visit and said "it's wonderful" to be home.

The royal newlyweds obviously were happy as they talked to reporters aboard the liner United States before it docked at 8 a. m. The baby they expect early in February was their favorite topic of conversation, as with any expectant parents.

Their only disagreement so far, the prince confided with a grin, has been over a name for the hoped-for heir to the throne of his 270-acre principality.

"We've decided on about three different names," the former movie actress Grace Kelly said. "We change them so often that we don't want to say which names we're considering. We don't want to commit ourselves yet."

Both said their American visit was strictly private and would be spent visiting Philadelphia and New York. The princess gave a firm "yes" when she was asked if her movie career was over. She will not go to Hollywood on this trip, she said, because she is not supposed to fly and "there isn't time" to go by train.

Two Airmen Killed In Plane Explosion Near Scott Base

SCOTT AIR FORCE BASE, Ill. (U)—The Air Force today identified two fliers killed shortly after their jet trainer crashed after take-off from Scott Air Force Base Monday night.

They were Lt. Theodore M. Stoik, 27, Clinton, Iowa, and Lt. Denis C. Kidd, also 27, Portland, Ore.

Both officers were married and lived with their families on the base. Kidd was the father of two sons, 1 and 2 years old, and Stoik had a 2-year-old son.

Both men were killed instantly. The trainer struck a field and its fuel spread over a wide area of standing corn and burned. The field is southeast of the base, about one mile north of Mascoutah, Ill.

CARBONDALE, Ill. (U)—Several southern Illinois electrical contractors say that "inside" linemen who stayed off the job Monday in a protest meeting at Carbondale were back at work today.

The workers, members of Local 702, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, had no comment on the reason for their walk-out which reportedly was in protest of terms in an arbitrated contract agreement last month.

Blonde, Marriage Plans Foiled by Arrest of Fiance, is Killed by Auto

CHICAGO (U)—A blonde tavern owner, whose marriage plans were foiled last weekend by the arrest of her fiance, was run down and killed by an auto early today in what police believed was a "grudge."

Lucille Fitzpatrick, 36, was tossed into the air by the auto of Nate Brown as she crossed the street in front of her tavern—the Green Lantern—on the West Side.

Nathan Gaus, 40, who was accompanying the woman, said the driver sped on, made a U-turn and ran over the body of Miss Fitzpatrick a second time. Gaus himself suffered minor injuries when he was brushed by the auto.

Police said Brown, 30, had been arrested recently by the buxom tavern owner, and was due to appear in Municipal Court Wednesday on a complaint of disturbing the peace at her tavern.

Patrons of the tavern told police Brown was in the Green Lantern earlier Monday night. Brown was captured by police a short distance from the tavern.

Miss Fitzpatrick was taken into custody last weekend when police halted an auto carrying her and three men—all armed with pistols.

Two policemen, suspicious of the car, had trailed it for a distance before forcing it to the curb. Interrogation later revealed the three men apparently had planned to rob the Merchants National Bank Thursday.

They were identified as James R. Massie, 30, Ironton, Ohio; Edward Fischer, 30, Cleveland, and Onward Russell 25, Marion, Ohio.

Miss Fitzpatrick and Massie had planned to be married today and had taken blood tests and made arrangements for the ceremony.

The woman told police she was unaware of Massie's criminal activities or that he was a paroled convict.

Tax Men Study Oil Industry's Education Fund

WASHINGTON (U)—Senate investigators revealed today that federal tax agents are looking into a two-million-dollar "educational" campaign which the oil industry launched for the natural gas bill.

The purpose of the inquiry, they said, is to find out whether oil companies could legally deduct the contributions they made to the drive from their income taxes.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D Ark.) made the disclosure during a public hearing of his Senate blue ribbon lobbying committee.

He read portions of a letter from acting Internal Revenue Commissioner O. Gordon Delk who said field agents are investigating the oil industry's "educational" campaign.

The educational campaign was conducted by the Natural Gas and Oil Resources Committee which was financed by major oil companies. Its officials have told the committee that the group was established to do no lobbying and did none on the controversial natural gas bill which was vetoed by President Eisenhower last spring.

The committee heard officials of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana concede that two more company's salesmen with their local agents sent telegrams to Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) urging approval of the gas bill without obtaining prior permission from the purported signers.

Rotary Functions Explained to Club By Dr. Blackard

The organization of the first Rotary club and functions of the present day Rotary club were discussed at the Rotary meeting Monday at the Masonic temple by Dr. William Blackard, program chairman.

Rotary International is an organization of business men functioning without secrecy to promote ethical relations in business under the motto, "Service not self." The first club was formed in 1905 by Paul P. Harris, a Chicago lawyer. Each member of the club represented a different profession and it was the hope of Mr. Harris that by bringing these men together they would get to know each other's problems and each one would benefit by this knowledge. Since that time Rotary International has grown until it has clubs in most of the countries of the world.

Dr. Blackard spoke of the different classifications within the club and stressed the point that the club tries to get as its members the best men from each profession.

George Davenport will be program chairman at next Monday's meeting.

Killed in Accident Near Du Quoin

DU QUOIN, Ill. (U)—State police here are seeking positive identification of a Negro man who was killed in a traffic accident Monday night. With him was a 2 or 3-year-old Negro boy who was not hurt.

Police have tentatively identified the victim as Willie Willburn, Chicago, from papers found on him. The boy's name is not known.

The accident happened on U. S. 51, five miles north of here. State police said the southbound car the victim was driving sideswiped a truck driven by William J. Wendling, 26, Tamaroa. The car then knocked over two telephone poles before overturning.

Homer Cummings, Former Attorney General, Dies

WASHINGTON (U)—Former Attorney General Homer Cummings, father of the famed Supreme Court "packing" plan, died Monday at his home.

The 86-year-old lawyer had a heart ailment. Dr. Paul Dickens, his physician, said he died quietly in his sleep.

Cummings was the late President Roosevelt's first attorney general. He served nearly six years, retiring Jan. 1, 1939 to return to private law practice.

Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler said in a statement that the Democratic Party mourns the "loss of a true friend and a tireless worker."

Although Cummings disagreed with some of the features of the New Deal, he fought vigorously to keep it alive.

He fathered the plan to enlarge the Supreme Court which was regularly blocking New Deal laws. The plan was opposed violently in Congress by Democrats as well as Republicans and was defeated.

However, the result was that several older conservative court members stepped down, enabling Roosevelt to appoint a majority to the high court.

Woman is Fined

Bessie Walker of Mt Carmel yesterday pleaded guilty to charges of reckless driving and to illegal transportation of liquor when arraigned before County Judge Trafton Dennis. She was fined $100 on the first count, $50 on the second and was ordered to pay costs of $28.30. She was arrested on Route 45 near Eldorado by State Policeman Guthrie Alexander.

big margin in November as he did four years ago."

Sure To Stir GOP

The results were sure to stir the GOP into greater efforts to combat — as Vice President Richard M. Nixon put in Monday — "what ever complacency and apathy may exist." And only Monday, Mr. Eisenhower was saying he feared the Democrats would get out their vote this year and that the GOP would not.

Democrats could point to the size of the vote to suggest that more than Republican apathy accounted for their pickup in strength. In the governorship race and in each of the three congressional districts, the total vote exceeded that cast in 1952 and in 1954.

The Maine election came on the eve of primary voting today in eight states which had not yet nominated candidates for Congress. These states were Arizona, Colorado, Minnesota, New Hampshire, Utah, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, sought the senatorial nomination for a fourth term in the Wisconsin GOP primary. His opponent, Rep. Glen Davis, was backed by the state Republican organization.

In the Colorado Democratic primary, Charles F. Brannan, secretary of agriculture in the Truman administration, faced former Rep. Johnson Carroll for the Democratic senatorial nomination. The winner will go against former Gov. Dan. Thornton, who was unopposed in the GOP primary.

Texas Eastern helps put the zip in a zipper

TEXAS EASTERN SERVES THE COMPANIES THAT SERVE YOU

Coils of certain metals from which zipper parts are cut are first annealed in natural gas-fired furnaces. Natural gas is supplied the three Meadville, Pennsylvania, plants of Talon, Inc., by United Natural Gas Company, a customer of Texas Eastern.

Texas Eastern transports natural gas from the Southwest to perform a vital function in the manufacture of zippers made by Talon, Inc. For a zipper to do its job, its metal parts must be tough and pliable. To achieve this, in the case of certain alloys, the metal is first annealed (softened) in natural gas-fired furnaces before it is processed into zipper parts. Talon uses natural gas because it permits accurate and more uniform control of the higher temperatures required in this annealing operation. Talon also uses natural gas to fire the boilers that provide steam and heat for its three Meadville plants, because gas is clean, uniform in quality and can be automatically controlled.

Braves, Dodgers Meet in Crucial 2-Game Series as Reds Open Against Giants

By United Press
It could be "put up or shut up" today for the Brooklyn Dodgers, who have been babbling a long time about catching Milwaukee but not doing anything concrete about it.

Veteran Sal Maglie, the 39-year old ex-Giant right-hander, gets the chance to pitch the Dodgers into a tie for first place today and if the Brooks can beat Milwaukee ace Bob Buhl—a trick they have failed to do in seven previous tries this year—they will own at least a share of the National League lead for the first time since last April 28.

While the Braves and Dodgers are at each other's throat in the first of a two-game series, Cincinnati, in third place three games off the pace, will meet the New York Giants in the first of a two-game set.

"Naturally, I'd like to knock off Brooklyn in both games," said Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney, "but I think the pressure is more on them than it is on us. We're on top and they have to catch us. A split would still leave us in first place and it would mean two less games for Brooklyn to play."

Haney, however, said the Braves weren't shooting for an even split. "We want to win 'em all now," he declared.

Meanwhile, Manager Birdie Tebbets of the Redlegs predicted that his club would be back in second place after their games with the Giants and Milwaukee's games with Brooklyn.

"I think Milwaukee will beat Brooklyn twice and I'm sure we're going to start moving after those three losses to St. Louis," said Tebbets.

With time growing short—Cincinnati has only 17 games remaining the same number as Milwaukee and Brooklyn—Tebbetts nominated Larry Jansen, once a mainstay with the Giants, to face rookie Joe Margoneri in tonight's game.

Following Monday's big league lull, in which all teams took a day off, the Cardinals meet the Phillies tonight and the Cubs square off against the Pirates.

In the American League, the runaway Yankees, with an 11-game lead, meet the Athletics at Kansas City tonight with Johnny Kucks going against Art Ditmar.

Baltimore is at Cleveland where veteran Bob Lemon will be trying for the 200th victory of his career and 19th of the season, while in other AL games the Red Sox meet the White Sox at Chicago and Washington is at Detroit.

October 3 Set As Opening Date Of World Series

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Baseball fans at least knew when the World Series will be played today, even though they don't have the foggiest notion about just who will be in it.

Commissioner Ford Frick met with representatives of five clubs Monday and set the opening date for Wednesday, Oct. 3 in the city of the National League winner, wherever that is.

Actually, he wasn't 100 per cent sure about that either, because he had to make provision for a possible two or three team playoff in the National League, which conceivably could delay the start of the series as much as a week.

But if everything winds up normally on Sunday, Sept. 30 and Milwaukee, Cincinnati, or Brooklyn is an undisputed winner in the National the series will begin three days later in the park of that winner. The club owners regarded it as a foregone conclusion that the New York Yankees will be the American League winners.

White Sox Sign Bonus Player

CHICAGO (U.P.) — A 16-year-old California youth has signed one of the largest bonus contracts in the history of the Chicago White Sox. Charles Comiskey, White Sox vice president, said Jim Darrington, a southpaw pitcher from South Gate, Calif., signed a contract providing a sum "well up in five figures" to be paid over several years. The bonus was estimated at between $40,000 and $60,000.

Darrington who also plays first base was expected to join the team tonight or Wednesday here. The lad, who will be 17 Nov. 29, had been sought by all other major league clubs.

Avant entered Marquette university following his high school graduation, played freshman basketball and as a sophomore made the Marquette varsity squad, then had scholastic difficulties and became ineligible.

Professional football, featuring the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Cardinals, will appear on the St. Louis sports scene Saturday night.

Kickoff time for the National Professional league exhibition game is slated for 8:30 p. m. The game, a benefit for the Cardinal Glennon Memorial hospital fund, will be played in Busch Stadium.

Entertainment attractions in addition to the football game, includes the famous Cochran Major-ettes of Port Clinton, Ohio, a precision trained drill unit of 75 girls and Johnny Polzin's 20-piece band.

Plenty of good seats are still available. The bulk of seats left are in the grandstand, priced at $2, and there are some at $1 and $4. Tickets can be bought at the Arcade Building or at Busch stadium.

Two Grid Prospects Aid Chances of Eldorado Eagles

Eldorado football chances took an upward turn Monday with the reporting of two big boys who enrolled for school a little late.

Jerry Raines a 175 pound junior, and his brother, Ronnie, a 200-pound tackle, worked out with the ETHS squad Monday afternoon and impressed Coach Al Adams.

"Jerry can move and looks like a fine fullback prospect. We probably will use him on offense," Adams said. He added that he planned to use the younger, but bigger, Raines boy on the "B" squad to give him experience.

Jerry and Ronnie are sons of Rev. Raines, Church of God pastor, who has accepted a call to the Eldorado church. The Raines family lived in South Carolina and the boys played football in high school there. They had been practicing this fall, but did not enroll in the South Carolina high school and will be eligible for Eldorado's opening game Friday at Anna.

DOWNSTATE FISHERMAN'S GUIDE:

Fishing Zooms with Fall-Like Air

By Pete Brown
(From reports by the Southern Illinois University Cooperative Fisheries Research Laboratory and the Illinois Department of Conservation)

A fall-like nip in the air apparently has put some zip into southern Illinois' recalcitrant lake fish. Creel reports reflect a long awaited upturn in both crappie and bass fishing.

Oddly enough, some of the week's biggest bass: play was recorded at Lake Murphysboro, an impoundment hardly notorious for largemouth. Spinner-fly combinations were racking up plenty of small to medium bass in the shallows. Minnows and night crawlers accounted for more.

Bluegill and redear also are acting up in gratifying fashion at "Murphy," making it one of the area's best bets.

Big crappie, lots of them, are coming in at Crab Orchard. One two-hour haul by a pair of anglers included 46 fish in the nine-inch category. Two other minnow-dunkers picked up 30 averaging ten inches. Many stringers of 12-inch crappie have been brought ashore. Plug fishing remains slow but most Crab Orchard veterans are confidently awaiting a big fall bass explosion.

Crappie fishing remains fair to fairer at Horseshoe Lake, with some blue cats, channel cats and bullheads interloping into the catches.

Lazy Ikes, Shannon twin-spinners, poppers and plastic night crawlers are among all manner of lures which have accounted for the few bass boated at Little Grassy. Crappie, however, remains the best bet. As in the past few weeks, the catches are running large in numbers but the individual fish, small. A 200-300 hook trotline will net you just enough catfish for two or three meals.

Theophil Sutter and O. F. Kern of Millstadt hooked 160 crappie in one of the more productive weekend outings at Grassy.

One of the most inspiring strings of fish to come out of Lake Glendale since early May, according to superintendent Bob Veach, was negotiated by Mickey McGuire, Ernest Hendrix and John Mulkin, all of Metropolis. In two days, the trio caught some 40 bass, most of them going one to two pounds. Their total catch also included two "very large" bluegill. All the fish were hooked on spinning tackle with the Yellow Dude Jig.

THE LONG NIGHT

By MARTIN CAIDIN

Copyright 1956 by Martin Caidin. Distributed by NEA Service.

THE STORY: An aircraft raid warning flash has been sent from a Ground Observer station that three unidentified planes are flying southward toward the city of Harrington. Henry Thompson, a Civil Defense executive, has gone to the movies with his wife.

At 40 seconds past 8:53 that evening, the local telephone operator in the snow-covered village of Cold Creek, near the Canadian border, plugged in a jack to take an incoming call.

"Operator? Aircraft Flash. This is 2731, Cold Creek exchange."

"One moment, please." The operator deftly flipped a switch. The call automatically passed through to the nearest United States Air Force Filter Center.

In the Filter Center, the Air Defense operator heard a buzz in her head phones, locked a switch in position for the new call, and spoke into the metal-plastic mike before her lips. "Air Defense. Go ahead, please."

Tim Ketcham repeated once more, "Aircraft flash." Then, slowly, distinctly: "Three. Multi-motor. Low. One minute. Alpha Quebec Two Four Green. Overhead. South-east. Sweptwing."

The Filter Center acted immediately on the call; wheels were already turning to digest this new information from distant Cold Creek. As the Air Defense operator received the call, she fingered a multi-colored plastic object of four sections shaped like a small arrowhead. Standing before a large, flat table map divided into grids, each representing several hundred square miles, she turned the various sections of the arrowhead pip to conform with the information coming over the telephone wires. When the identifying symbols and colors of the marker were adjusted to indicate the three multi-motored aircraft had flown low over the spotter's tower known as Alpha Quebec Two Four Green (one minute before) heading in a southeast direction, the pip was placed on the grid table near the mark identifying the spotter's post.

The operator-plotted, "Check. Thank you," and broke the connection.

A Filter Center "teller" with earphones clamped to his head jotted down the data of Ketcham's call. An experienced Air Force sergeant, the "teller" rang in on a direct line to the Air Defense Filter Center.

"This is Sergeant Mulroney. I have an aircraft flash..." The sergeant repeated the spotter's report. "Give me an action check against a flight plan, please."

In the Air Defense Filter Center, where dozens of men and women were receiving reports from a number of filter centers and radar stations, a giant vertical transparent "map," a seeming maze of white lines, colored arrows and numbers, indicated the known positions of all aircraft anywhere within its territory. Uniformed young men and women stood and squatted at various levels before the map, headphones to their ears, writing in reverse the information imparted to them, so that the officers facing them could read the hieroglyphics.

The report from Alpha Quebec Two Four Green was not identifiable with anything on file.

In the Filter Center, just four minutes after the information from Tim Ketcham was recorded, a second aircraft flash was received. Three, multimotor, very low, fast, and heading in a southeast direction. There was no doubt about the "track" being made now. A "raid stand," resembling a miniature highway crossing sign with many posts jutting from it at right angles, replaced the pip on the grid table. Each small cardboard arm told a story of death on the wing.

The Air Defense Direction Center officer in charge of this new information suddenly disliked his job. Multimotor aircraft (sweptwing at that, if that spotter saw right) do not fly on the deck at high speed, in formation, and especially at night. Unless there's a good reason for it. Strategic Air Command has no training flights in the area. The officer leans forward, barks one word into the mike before him.

"Scramble!"

In every Air Defense Control Center, the next highest command echelon over the Direction Center, there is always a very important civilian on duty for an eight-hour shift. To the rest of the Control Center personnel he may be known as Fred or Mr. Kenney, but on the official table of organization he is listed as the "Federal Civil Defense Administration Controller."

It is this man's task to listen constantly to all the aircraft flashes, the flight plan checks, and the always cold-air-down-your-neck orders to scramble jet interceptors. On this particular November evening Fred Kenney wished he were somewhere else. In the last few weeks there had been an unusually heavy number of unidentified vapor trails in the trans-polar regions. Every new and unrecorded aircraft sighted put him on edge.

Ground radar was unable to get a "fix" on the three reported aircraft; this meant they were too low to be picked up. When the second spotter's flash came in Kenney decided it was time to play a combination of hard fact and hard hunch.

He leaned across his desk to turn a switch which activated a "hot line" squawk box system to eight cities throughout the state. These cities, of which Harrington was one, were listed as "target cities." In each of the cities a buzzer atop a speaker on the wall or desk of a police station, fire house or sheriff's office coughed raucously when Fred Kenney turned the switch before him. It was exactly 9:06 p. m. when Kenney spoke:

"Warning Yellow. Air Defense Warning Yellow. Roll call, please."

In each of the cities, the evening routine skidded abruptly to a halt at those few words. The individual at the box activated his message line, and in predetermined order acknowledged the Yellow Alert.

In Harrington police headquarters the duty sergeant acknowledged the alert call as he yanked a telephone receiver from its cradle. The sergeant intoned, "Emergency Air Raid Warning Yellow Sequence One. Emergency Air Raid Warning Yellow. Sequence One."

The long-distance operator checked down her Sequence One list of names and numbers. She ignored all other calls at the moment and called the Sub Air Raid Warning Centers serviced by Harrington, repeating the sergeant's warning call.

At eight minutes after nine, Col. Alfred Buyers slammed his telephone receiver down on the cradle. Less than a minute later, after limping hurriedly to his garage, he was driving to the Control Center just outside the Harrington city limits.

At 11 minutes after nine, the telephone in Henry J. Thompson's home rang and rang and rang...

By 14 minutes past nine, the city of Harrington had exploded into action which was little noticed by its citizens. In 43 fire-houses, 32 engine companies and 15 hook-and-ladder companies left their coffee and card games to race through the city streets. No fire awaited them at the end of their drive; instead, they raced for pre-assigned locations outside the city, where they waited. These dozen fire trucks and hundreds of men, separated by darkness and many miles remained in contact with their chief already seated at his desk in the city's Control Center.

Amateur radio "hams" stopped tinkering with their sets or playing poker games and raced in their cars for obscure and darkened highway shoulders, to empty garages and diners on all the major roads leading in and out of Harrington. When they arrived at their assigned Aid Check Points, each car reported by radio to the Control Center and waited.

Civil defense staff personnel drove to various locations throughout the city. Not all of them; some, like Henry Thompson, were unaware of telephones at home ringing.

Hospitals moved patients from wards and rooms into hallways and interior rooms; ambulatory patients helped nurses, doctors, internes and janitors. Police cars rolled up to highway crossings to set up roadblocks; giant dump trucks from the State Department of Public Works trundled up to crossroads leading into major highways, wheeled, and blocked the roads to all traffic. Throughout the city, in the Control Center and its alternate, at Zone Headquarters, Aid Check Points, Hospitals, Secondary Aid Stations, roadblocks, everywhere, hundreds of men hurried to their stations.

Some violated their responsibilities, calling families with the hushed warning to "get out of town immediately; there's an alert on." While these people, choosing to offer the protection of the Yellow Alert warning to their families while denying it to their neighbors, acted in selfish though understandable interest, their number was inconsequential.

The city of Harrington prepared to fight for its life.

Thinking It Over

By Robert Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

From several different cities of the United States come requests and petitions for the editors of the nation to devote more space to religious news and to an editorial policy of encouraging higher spiritual values in daily living. This interest in interfaith and interdenominational religious emphasis is quite new to America as a nation.

Many individuals have talked of basic religious tenets which would be common to all religious belief. They have talked of spiritual foundation stones which underlie all personal religions. They are talking about points of agreement. The voices of many of these evangelists have gone unheeded until recently.

The new turn toward God of the people of this nation and other nations is being recognized by radio, television and by the press. The religious columns appearing in the papers of America is indicative of the universal demand for spiritual uplift. What America wants is recognized by the editors of all media.

One of the conditions which must be considered is that people write letters when they disagree with policy, but few write words of agreement and normale. Our spiritual affairs are going along so well that we feel less need for expression when there was opposition.

If enough concern is expressed for the religious well-being of America, the press and other media will meet the demand with satisfying news, policy, emphasis and space.

Sign-Up for Wheat Acreage Program Will Begin Sept. 12

Sign-up for the 1957 wheat acreage program begins on Sept. 12 at the Saline county ASC office in the city hall, Harrisburg. It was announced today by Herman Driskell, chairman of the local ASC.

Under this program farmers are paid for reducing their acreage of wheat below the allotment. This payment is computed by multiplying the rate of $1.23 per bushel, times the bushel yield established for the farm or acreage, times the number of acres reduced. The area involved must be specifically designated and it can not be grazed or harvested during 1957.

The basic purpose of this program, continued Mr. Driskell, is to help reduce excessive supplies of wheat. The payment is designed to offset the income the farmer would otherwise have received from the acres placed in the reserve.

"All farmers with 'old' wheat allotments should call at our office as soon as possible in order to learn all of the details of the program," Mr. Driskell stated.
